

Scenario I: User enters an existing data

Given an input that already exist in the systems.
When the user tries to enter that input.

Then the system will inform the user that the data already exist.

Scenario II: User enters an invalid data

Given an invalid input such as using text instead of numbers.

When the user validates the data.

Then the system informs that the user entered an invalid input.