Scenario I: User update with invalid data

Given an invalid input such as entering text when a number is expected.

When the user tries to update.

Then the system should not update the data and inform the user of the invalid data.